SHOP TALK
By RAY BROOKS

Come now to Torrance two gentlemen, J. B. Parazette and B. C. Buckland, as partners in the business of selling tires, tubes, radio, accessories, and tire retreading. Both, by virtue of years of experience know their way around in the tire business. For 10 and 12 years respectively, these fellows draw pay checks from the Goodyear Rubber Co. in Los Angeles. They both saw service in almost every branch of the game, and Parazette for the past two years was salesmanager for the Super Mold Corp., makers of tire retreading equipment.

The new entrepreneurs (some word, eh?) have established themselves at 1618 Cravens, in the building that formerly was the home of the Torrance Retreading and Tire Service. Become not confused, however, as the new firm calls themselves the Torrance Tire & Retreading Co., an entirely new company.

So let us welcome the newcomers to Torrance, a spot they chose after several months of intensive study of southland cities suitable for their business. Both plan to make Torrance their permanent home providing things work out satisfactorily... and I'm sure they will.

Hancock Distributor Percy Hammond likes nothing better than to tuck a shotgun under his arm and go out to bag a few quail, duck, deer, rabbits, dove, field mice, etc., etc. Anything goes. He just likes to hunt. And now that dove season is in, Percy has been stealing an afternoon or two away from business and with his trusty musket, going over back of Manhattan Beach where he takes pot shots at the birds in the corn fields thereabout. He even has taken a couple of shots out at CCMO, where, he says, he was run off the property several times. They just won't let a feller have any fun any more.

The other day I was brought up short by the observation that the small pack of safety matches I was holding in my hand bore the advertising of the Ohio Blue Tip Match Co. on the cover. Now isn't it strange that on all the thousands of such match covers we have seen ads ranging from Joe's Beanery to the swank Coconut Grove, but we never saw a match cover that carried the ad of the match company that produces said matches!

And strange again, and likewise confusing, are the long-discarded names of streets in Torrance which were imbedded in the concrete sidewalks, but which now have new names. To mention two: on the corners of Post avenue there are the permanently inscribed words "Gundalup Avenue." On Margellina corners are written "Susana Avenue." Torrance is hard enough in which to find your way about without having to face the problem of two names for every street.

Gone from the face of the earth is the Rustic Tavern, 4000 Sepulveda avenue. Mrs. David Attebery, prop. Tuesday morning about 8:30 the place caught on fire and like all things that catch on fire, it went up in blue flames.

We have visited the Rustic Tavern several times along with Guy Kelly, Frank Paour, and others. It was a nice little place and had quite a reputation for a special chicken sandwich, price two-bits, which amounted to a quarter portion, on two pieces of toast. But for the price it was well worth it, and several times Mrs. Attebery or her assistant was called out of bed at unholy hours to cook up a bit of her special chicken. (Guy Kelly is known for a fact to have eaten four "specials" at one sitting).

Unfortunately, the fire insurance premiums ran so high out there that Mrs. Attebery carried only about a third of total valuation. And when the loss reached $4000, it was quite a rap to take.

When we were kids we used to play a game called "Lotto." Many will remember it. And we just played for fun, no stakes, no prize.

But now that same game has been dressed up a bit, given the name of "Tango" and appears in elegant surroundings and regal fanfare, where it is known as a game of "skill".

Irregardless of whether or not you believe it a game of skill, the bloomin' pastime has developed into a money paying proposition... for the operators, we mean. Of course, there is a chance of the players winning a $15 to $25 pot now and then, but the old law of averages still works in this so-called "skill" game.

Gardena recently opened its doors to Tango operators and quickly there arose the Embassy Palace, an elaborate enterprise, which previously had fallen as a drink and dance establishment.

The opening night at the Embassy was truly a gala affair. Gardena courages were handed all the women along with a box of chocolates. Coffee and sandwiches were served in the back room, cigarettes were free, as well as punch and candy. Nothing was too good for the customers who for once thought they were getting an even break.

It does not need saying that the place was packed... so packed that the boys and girls had to line up to play, take turns, as it were.

What a business... what a business.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our sincere thanks to our Torrance friends who extended their sympathy and sent us flowers during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Zada Hastie
Mrs. Carrie Parks
Jimmie Parks.

Death lay in wait on the highway for Mrs. Maud Thompson, of Tucson, Arizona, whose mortal remains were laid to rest at Angelus Abbey last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, formerly of San Pedro, were returning from a trip to Tennessee, and when but seven miles from their home in Tucson their car struck a rut and overturned. Mrs. Thompson was killed instantly, while her husband suffered serious injuries and is still confined to a hospital in the Arizona city.

Mrs. M. L. Colvin, 25122 Pennsylvania avenue, Lomita, a niece of the dead woman, went to Tucson and arranged to have the body brought here for burial. Rev. Fred H. Ross of San Pedro, conducted the services at Angelus Abbey, the A. M. Gamby Mortuary in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Thompson leaves besides her niece in Lomita, a sister, Mrs. Callahan, and a brother, W. L. North, both residing in Southern California.
